'These tragedies must end'

U.S. President Barack Obama speaks at an interfaith vigil on Sunday in memory of the shooting victims of Sandy Hook Elementary School in Newtown, Conn. In an impassioned speech, Obama noted this was the fourth time in his presidency he had to visit a community in the aftermath of a mass shooting. More coverage, pages 4 & 5. ## Newtown, Conn.

Barack Obama pays tribute to the victims of Friday's mass shooting at Sunday vigil

A mournful President Barack Obama said Sunday that the United States is failing to keep its children safe, pledging that change must come after an elementary-school massacre left 20 children dead.

"What choice do we have?" Obama said. "Are we really prepared to say that we're powerless in the face of such carnage, that the politics are too hard?"

In a vigil for the fallen, in a moment of grief that spread around the world, Obama conceded that none of his words would match the sorrow. But he declared to the community of Newtown, site of the second-deadliest school shooting in U.S. history: "You are not alone."

"We can't tolerate this any more," he said. "These tragedies must end. And to end them, we must change."

For Obama, ending his fourth year in office, it was another sorrowful visit to another community in disbelief. The massacre on Friday of 26 children and adults at Sandy Hook Elementary elicited horror around the world, soul-searching in the United States, fresh political debate about gun control and questions about the incomprehensible — what drove the suspect to act.

Privately, Obama told Connecticut Gov. Dannel Malloy that Friday was the most difficult day of his presidency.

Authorities said Sunday that the gunman in the shooting rampage was carrying an arsenal of hundreds of rounds of especially deadly ammunition — enough to kill just about every student in the school if given enough time, raising the chilling possibility that the bloodbath could have been far worse.

Adam Lanza shot himself in the head just as he heard police drawing near to the classroom where he was slaughtering helpless children, but he had more ammunition at the ready in the form of multiple, high-capacity clips each capable of holding 30 bullets.

The disclosure sent shud-ders throughout this picturesque community in the northeastern U.S. as grieving families sought to comfort each other during church services devoted to impossible questions like that of a six-year-old girl who asked her mother: "The little children, are they with the angels?"

Many of Newtown's 27,000 people wondered whether life could ever return to normal. Officials couldn't say whether Sandy Hook Elementary School would ever reopen. The school district was considering sending surviving students to an empty school in nearby Monroe. But for many parents, it was much too soon to contemplate resuming school-day routines.

"We're just now getting ready to talk to our son about who was killed," said Robert Licata, the father of a boy who was at the school during the shooting but escaped harm. "He's not even there yet."

"I feel like we have to get back to normal, but I don't know if there is normal anymore," said Kim Camputo, mother of two children, ages five and 10, who attend a different school. "I'll definitely be dropping them off and picking them up myself for a while."

Energy generation. Majority of garbage will be converted into gas via experimental process

alex.boutilier@metronews.ca

Over a full year after originally announcing a deal was forthcoming, Ottawa City Hall and Plasco Energy Group have agreed on the terms.

Under the terms of the 20-year deal, the city will truck 109,500 tonnes of garbage annually to be run through Plasco's experimental "plasma gasification" process, converting the waste to gas used for energy generation.

That's the bulk of the 130,000 tonnes Plasco intends to process per year. The city also has the right of first refusal to provide the additional 20,500 tonnes. The deal includes the option of four five-year extensions for the city.

The city will pay the company $83.25 per tonne processed.

"The finalization of the commercial agreement represents an important milestone in the city's ongoing partnership with Plasco Energy Group Inc.," said city manager Kent Kirkpatrick in a press release.

The city announced the deal in a press release Saturday morning after speculation a deal would be reached on Friday. It is not known what eleventh-hour snag delayed the contract agreement for a day.

Coun. Maria McRae, the chair of Ottawa's environment committee and a supporter of the Plasco deal, told reporters in November that a deal was imminent. In the release, she said she looks forward to Plasco building a commercial facility at 3704 Moodie Dr.

"The city took rigorous steps to protect the interest of taxpayers when negotiating this contract," McRae said in the release. She could not be reached for an interview on Sunday.

A report on the deal will come forward to the city's environment committee in early 2013. Council will have final approval on the contract in the New Year.

School massacre. Leftover ammo suggests an even deadlier plan: Police

The gunman in the Connecticut shooting rampage was carrying an arsenal of hundreds of rounds of especially deadly ammunition — enough to kill just about every student in the school if given enough time, authorities said Sunday, raising the chilling possibility that the bloodbath could have been far worse.

Adam Lanza shot himself in the head just as he heard police drawing near to the classroom where he was slaughtering helpless children but he had more ammunition at the ready in the form of multiple high-capacity clips, each capable of holding 30 bullets.

U.S. Democrats call for gun restrictions

Arms control.

Advocates say the latest shooting in Connecticut could be a tipping point to changing the debate dramatically Democratic lawmakers said Sunday that military-style assault weapons should be banned and that a national commission should be established to examine mass shootings in the United States.

The proposals were among the first to come from Congress in the wake of Friday's massacre at a school in Newtown, Conn. Gun rights activists remained largely quiet on the issue; all but one declining to appear on the Sunday talk shows. Meanwhile, Democrats vowed action and said it was time to hear from voters — not gun lobbyists — on how to prevent the next shooting.

The time for "saying that we can't talk about the policy implications of tragedies like this is over," said Rep. Chris Murphy, a Connecticut Democrat who won a Senate seat in the November elections.

President Barack Obama and Senate Democrats haven't pushed for new gun control measures since taking power in the 2008 elections. Outspoken advocates for stricter laws, including Sen. Dianne Feinstein, say that's because of the powerful sway of the National Rifle Association, the gun owners' lobbying group.

But advocates also say the latest shooting is a tipping point that could change the dynamic of the debate dramatically. Feinstein said she will propose legislation next year that would ban big

Independent commissions

Congress has frequently turned to independent bipartisan commissions to try to solve America's worst problems, including the Sept. 11, 2001, terrorist attacks, the Iraq war and the failing economy. But ultimately, lawmakers are often reluctant to act on the recommendations of outsiders, especially if they think it will cost them support in their home states.

said.

Sen. Joe Lieberman, an independent former Democrat from Connecticut who is retiring, supports such a ban on assault weapons but said there should also be a national commission to scrutinize gun laws and loopholes as well as the U.S. mental health system and the role that violent video games and movies might play in shootings. Democratic Sen. Dick Durbin said he would support such a panel, adding that it was time for a "national discussion" that included school safety.

Members of a Winnipeg church and school are mourning a six-year-old girl, described as bright and talented, who died in a horrific school shooting in the U.S. on Friday.

Ana Marquez-Greene was one of the 20 children murdered in Newtown, Conn., in a rampage that left 28 dead, including the shooter and his mother. Ana, who moved back to Connecticut with her family after a few years in Winnipeg, was the daughter of University of Manitoba professor Jimmy Greene, an accomplished saxophone player.

Greene issued a statement via his Facebook page this weekend.

"Thank you for all of your prayers and kind words of support," reads the posting that was put up Saturday.

"As we work through this nightmare, we're reminded how much we're loved and supported on this earth and by our Father in heaven. As much as she's needed here and missed by her mother, brother and me, Ana beat us all to paradise. I love you sweetie girl."

Ana attended Linden Christian School while she lived in Winnipeg with her parents and her brother, Isaiah. Isaiah was also at the school during the shooting but escaped unharmed.

"As a community, let's uphold James, Nelba and their son Isaiah, as well as the many individuals impacted by this tragedy, in prayer," said Linden Christian principal Rob Charach.

Spy budget. Canadian army trying to maintain intelligence capabilities

The Canadian army is trying to hold on to its intelligence-gathering capability and its ability to disrupt spying in the face of budget strain, say internal National Defence documents.

A briefing note prepared for the country's top soldier shows the army has pushed the military's chief of intelligence to permanently staff "high-readiness" intelligence positions within brigades and all-source intelligence centres that could be called upon to deploy overseas.

The documents also show the army is anxious to protect its network of human sources and operatives, known as HUMINT, and to better resource its counter-intelligence abilities.

With the end of the war in Afghanistan and a shrinking defence budget, there is a fear those disciplines could face "degradation."

During an appearance recently before the Senate security and defence committee, army commander Lt-Gen. Peter Devlin said he's invested 1,500 regular force positions in "enablers" such as intelligence, counter-improvised explosive device research, helicopters and unmanned aerial vehicles, among other things.

Ontario man's been ready for impending disaster for half a century

Bruce Beach shows off the living quarters in his underground bunker in Horning's Mills, Ont. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Bunker. Whether for the Cuban missile crisis, Y2K or a nuclear catastrophe, Bruce Beach stayed prepared Don't talk to Bruce Beach about doomsday. He's been preparing for impending disaster for a half-century and has seen apocalyptic agitation come and go, like so many fads.

So forgive him for not panicking over the end of the Mayan calendar on Dec. 21, this coming Friday.

The 78-year-old former high school teacher, who has a huge nuclear bunker, built his first shelter for the Cuban missile crisis in the 1960s.

He was prepared to go underground for the Y2K crisis, amid widespread concern that computer glitches might bring down airplanes in 2000. He received lots of calls from people seeking shelter during the 1982 Falklands War.

But his busiest day was Sept. 11, 2001, when his website was bombarded with 85,000 hits within three hours.

People regularly drop in to seek refuge in the shelter he built in the 1980s, named the Ark Two, which is composed of 42 buried school buses.

The labyrinth, with its kitchens, showers and separate bunk rooms for children and adults, is about 90 kilometres northwest of Toronto, in Horning's Mills.

"People have been in a panic because someone has prophesized the end of the world this particular week or whatever," Beach said.

"They call us up just to make sure we have space in the shelter and I tell them, 'For sure.'" Beach's main concern has always been the threat of nuclear attacks, which he fears are even closer than ever because of Middle East conflicts or Iran.

Avoiding the pitfalls of ebook self-publishing

Going it alone. Here are five tips to help you get in on the ebook explosion in 2013

In 2012, Douglas & McIntyre filed for bankruptcy protection, Random House of Canada became the sole owner of McClelland & Stewart, and Penguin and Random House planned to merge.

It's perhaps no surprise that the year also saw an explosion in online self-publishing, with a wealth of platforms — including Kobo Writing Life, Amazon Kindle Direct Publishing and iBooks Author — offering authors an alternate avenue.

"We're actually hearing from a lot of different types of authors, some brand new and some successful ... that have had traditional contracts that are just using self-publishing to experiment with new stuff or put books out that they wanted to do on a different cycle than their traditional publishers were," says Libby Johnson McKee, director of Kindle Direct Publishing.

If you have dreams of being a self-publishing sensation in 2013, here are tips on how to stand out in an increasingly crowded market:

1 The moment you start writing the book, begin building your marketing platform.

"The hardest thing about self-publishing is marketing, not writing, and people find this out too late," says California-based author Guy Kawasaki, who has self-published two books and explains how to do so in the newly released APE: Author, Publisher, Entrepreneur — How to Publish Your Book.

Kawasaki recommends spending two to three hours a day on writing, and one hour a day building a marketing platform on social media sites such as Google Plus, Facebook, Twitter and LinkedIn.

2 It sounds simple, but write a great book (and know your audience).

"Bad books just don't sell," says Johnson McKee. "And if you write a great book and really work hard on getting your message right, the craft of writing is still the thing that wins the day."

Browse blogs of authors in the same genre and understand what fans like to read.

3 Once the book is written, start crowdsourcing. Get fans, friends, colleagues and others to copy edit or review the book.

"Do this immediately before it goes on sale, so that as soon as it goes on sale you have a bunch of great reviews for the book," says Kawasaki (he sent APE in full format to about 1,000 people before he self-published it, and just three days after it went on sale it had about 135 online

Quoted

"(Authors) finish their book and they think: 'Oh, I'll put it on Amazon and boom, people will start buying it,' and they will find that is absolutely not true."

Author Guy Kawasaki, who has written a book on self-publishing reviews).

"Proofreading and editing, though, is a skill and it's something that, just because you write, you might not be able to be the best editor," cautions Johnson McKee. "So if you can find somebody who has that skill and it actually is pretty affordable ... I would recommend trying to do that."

4 Lure in readers by putting your work on various sites and devices. And create catchy metadata, which includes the cover, title, description, biography, and price.

"People judge a book by its cover — they do — so I would strongly recommend that authors consider using a professional cover designer and investing the time and effort in that," says Mark Lefebvre, director of self-publishing and author relations at Kobo. As with an ebook's text, the cover can also be changed once it's out in digital format.

5 Write another great book as soon as possible. Lefebvre notes that passionate and dedicated readers will whip through a book and immediately check to see if authors have written anything else.

This rule is particularly important for genre writers, adds Johnson McKee. "Those types of readers are voracious," she says. "I heard some statistic that romance readers can read 10 books a week, and those are people who are just waiting for the next book to come out."

Can Tory-style lingo change NDP's fiscal reputation?

Tom Mulcair boasts that he often sounds more like a conservative than Prime Minister Stephen Harper. It may seem an odd thing for the leader of a social-democratic party to brag about. But for the NDP leader, it's part of his mission to prove to Canadians that New Democrats aren't the wild-eyed, reckless taxers and spenders of lore.

Indeed, he maintains that's a more apt description of Harper's Conservatives, whom he accuses of racking up a huge environmental, economic and social debt that future generations will have to pay off.

"What's a paradox ... is that these are essentially conservative themes that I'm evoking in the sense that it would be very conservative to say, 'Don't look for a handout, be self-reliant, pull yourself up by your bootstraps,' all that sort of stuff," Mulcair said. "But what the Conservatives are doing is living off the credit card of our grandchildren ... and I think that's wrong."

Mulcair still emphasizes traditional NDP issues: sustainable development and the need to reduce social inequalities. But he's framing them in conservative language, essentially arguing that intergenerational equity requires the current generation to carry its own weight.

LRT, PRESTO AND YOUR MONEY

URBAN COMPASS
Steve Collins
ottawa@metronews.ca

At the unveiling of OC Transpo's planned $2.13-billion Confederation Line, Ontario Premier Dalton McGuinty opened his remarks by observing that "Christmas is not too far away."

Any resemblance between the premier, with his $600-million sack of provincial LRT cash, and Santa are of course entirely coincidental, and no such comparison was either made or implied. Sometimes, though, it seems our politicians make no special efforts to dispel any cases of mistaken identity.

Liberal dignitaries, including the premier, cabinet minister (and ex-mayor) Bob Chiarelli, Mayor (and ex-cabinet minister) Jim Watson, rather outnumbered the Tories, and while no party logos were displayed, the backdrops erected for the occasion were colour-coded a partisan (or perhaps seasonally festive) red.

It fell to the odd man out on the podium, the Conservative MP for Ottawa-Orleans, Royal Galipeau, to remind us not only of the feds' $600-million contribution, but, just as usefully, that "it's not really the government's money. It's the people's money."

This is always worth saying, and reassuring to hear from a representative of a government that has spent so much of the people's money on signs and ads reminding us how much of the same has been spent on their Economic Action Plan, and this week announced that they were hitting the dreaded "reset button" on a troubled fighter-jet purchase.

In the meantime, it remains an open question just how passengers will be paying for their LRT trips — whether the Presto system will finally prove up to the job this spring as hoped or whether we'll be scrambling to find a replacement in time for the 2018 LRT opening.

In his 2012 annual report, released last week, Ontario auditor general Jim McCarter had bad news about Presto and the people's money. The original 10-year, $250-million contract that provincial transit authority Metrolinx signed in 2006 with Accenture to develop Presto, he noted, has mutated repeatedly.

"By the time it is fully developed," McCarter wrote, "Presto will be among the more expensive fare-card systems in the world, and more than $700 million may have been paid to the contractor for developing it."

Metrolinx doesn't dispute the figure, but expects to recover $275 million of that from satisfied customers in Ottawa, Toronto and environs. Satisfaction, however, remains elusive.

The reviews are mixed among transit services in the 905, where uptake of the system has been slower than expected. Among the complaints is that Presto might be pricing transit out of reach of its poorest riders.

"Several of these agencies indicated to us that a good portion of their ridership (nearly a third in some regions and municipalities) are considered low-income and either cannot afford to load the minimum $10 currently required by the Presto card or do not have bank accounts or credit cards and therefore cannot load the cards online," reported the auditor general.

At the time of the report's writing, Presto was still scheduled to launch here in February, after having missed its July rollout (originally, 2010 was to be Ottawa's year of tap-and-go functionality). Now we're thinking April.

The city, vexed and embarrassed by the delays, assures that we're being compensated for their cost, and that we still have the option to walk away with no strings attached in April if there's another flop.

But the province made $32.5 million in transit funding for 2010-2011 from gas taxes contingent on buying into Presto. Even if Ottawa pulls out and is reimbursed every wasted penny, we shouldn't be surprised if that funding deal gets revisited.

Other cost-recovery guarantees were built into the contract between Metrolinx and Accenture. But as the auditor general's report points out, even though Presto failed to meet a third of its 22 performance standards in 2011, Metrolinx didn't impose any of the allowed penalties.

If Metrolinx hopes to recover $275 million of the people's money (provincial) from the people's money (municipal), they could at least hold Accenture to its contract in the meantime.

How much is the doggie made of chains?

NIRIT LEVAV PACKER/REX FEATURES

Recycled animal art

Bicycle chains get upcycled into art

An artist has created a series of incredibly detailed life-size dog sculptures made entirely from bicycle parts.

Israeli-born Nirit Levav Packer's collection includes a full-size greyhound, cocker spaniels and other mutts constructed from recycled bike chains, gears, pedals and even bike seats.

Element of surprise

Metal mutts are not as tough as they look

At the beginning, Packer was pleasantly surprised that her creations weren't as fierce and hard as the chains of metal imply.

"The first dog I made was a Rottweiler, thinking that the rough edges of the broken metal pieces would loan to the dog's tough persona," she said. "But instead I was surprised to have created a sculpture that was more friendly and cute than intimidating." METRO

Emotional representation

Innermost thoughts shown through dog

In describing her artwork, Packer defines it as, "excitement, curiosity and fun."

"For me, this art is a reflection of my own emotions," Packer said.

"It's a representation of my thoughts from inside out. I love to weld metal, and these chains are not heavy; (they're) surprisingly soft and flexible. Out of all the materials I use — keys, nails, watches — metal is my favourite." METRO

Artist's viewpoint

"The biggest challenge for me in this art is to capture the expressions that a real dog would typically make. Thankfully, this type of metal is very flexible."

Leslie Mann stars in This is 40, a movie directed by her husband, Judd Apatow. HANDOUT

Keeping it all in the family

This is 40. Leslie Mann talks about working with her children on movies directed by her husband and what middle age is like

Metro World News

Leslie Mann has made quite the career in husband Judd Apatow's movies, playing characters not too different from herself in Knocked Up, Funny People and now This is 40. In fact, much of the squabbling between Mann's Debbie and Paul Rudd's Pete in This is 40 was cultivated at home, making the film a kind of marriage counselling for the parents of two.

"It's like what I would fantasize about saying to Judd," Mann explains. "Like Debbie can say these things to Pete, but Leslie can't really say these things to Judd. It's fun to have this character to live through."

The film also gives Mann another chance to act alongside daughters Maude and Iris. (Like in Knocked Up, Mann and Apatow's real-life daughters co-star as Mann's character's kids.) But there can be trouble when her older daughter tries to take her work home with her, Mann admits.

"It's fun for Maude because we don't allow her to curse at home. I know she does at school," she says. "So it was fun for her to be able to do that at work, which I didn't think was a great idea, but Judd thinks is funny. So that's fun for her. But then she gets home from work and she tries to say the F-word or whatever and we have to shut her down."

Even with Apatow's brand of bold, uncomfortable comedy, Mann says she's game for anything. Of course, she had to draw the line somewhere, but that point has nothing to do with humorous or embarrassing situations.

"The only thing that made me feel uncomfortable in this movie is a scene with Iris when I'm laying in bed with her because it felt a little invasive," Mann admits. "I don't know why, because I can do anything else, but that for some reason felt a little like it was crossing some boundary. Just because everyone was sitting there watching me with my little girl doing what I do with my little girl, and I didn't like that."

As for life after 40, the actress — who hit the milestone herself last March — has found it to be a mixed bag.

"I think every day is different. Some days I feel fine and other days I feel like crying all day," she says. "I have lunches with my girlfriends who just turned 40, and some of those lunches we're crying and screaming about our husbands and saying we want to leave them and run away, and then other lunches we're fine and love our husbands and are happy with our lives."

One thing is for sure, though: A sequel about turning 50 would likely be darker.

"I keep asking women who are a little bit older when is this going to pass, and they're like, 'It doesn't pass. It just gets worse,'" Mann says.

Motive actress' disarming' role

STEPHEN
scene@metronews.ca

She recently portrayed Gwen Eaton, a campaign adviser with a bone to pick with her secret lover in the critically lauded murder mystery The Killing. Now, Vancouver-born actress Kristin Lehman is taking on the lead role in CTV's new police procedural drama Motive.

Described as "feisty, sexy and disarming," her character of Angie Flynn is a divorced single mom and homicide detective who investigates cases that are told from the perspective of the killer as well as victim. This particular job came along at the ideal time for Lehman.

"I was very lucky to have done The Killing, and when we wrapped last April, I wanted to do more equally creatively satisfying work," notes the actress. "I also wanted to stay in Vancouver, largely because my little boy is in pre-school here and we really built our family's life around being in town for the series."

"So when I heard that Motive was a CTV show I was really excited about the possibility of doing another Canadian series. Then I read the material and fell in love with it. So I auditioned and, like every audition, I was convinced it wasn't what they [the producers] wanted," she jokes, "but happily it was what they wanted and here I am."

Despite being very different from her character, the actress felt an immediate bond with Angie.

"It's just an absolute delight to step into her shoes," says Lehman. "Angie 'lives' in me quite naturally, and thanks to our writers I get to delve into the complexities of what it must be like to have such a difficult job as well as be impulsive, instinctive, say what you feel and make mistakes."

At the time of this interview, Lehman and the rest of the Motive cast and crew were slightly over halfway through filming the show's first season.

"Aidan Devine guest-stars in this episode and he is an acting powerhouse," praises the actress. "I suppose I'm enjoying this one, in particular, because Angie has a really strong connection with the main protagonist. She decides to go against her superiors' wishes and follow her own hunches, so Aidan and I have gone toe-to-toe with some pretty intense and heavy scenes."

"At the end of the day you feel proud of all the effort you've put in as well as having worked opposite and shared a lot of mutual respect with another actor who processes the same way you do."

Putting The Impossible into perspective

Naomi Watts. Her latest film on the 2004 South Pacific tsunami left the actress waterlogged and deeply impressed

EHRBAR
Metro World News

Naomi Watts has spent a lot of time getting to know Maria Belon, and her esteem for the Spanish woman has in no way diminished. Belon and her family survived the 2004 South Pacific tsunami and went on to inspire Watts' new film, The Impossible. (The family has been recast as British for the movie.)

"I was blown away by her," Watts remembers. "Having gone through this experience together and knowing what she went through, you want to hold onto everything she feels and says because you know how close she came. There's something now about her that makes her just understand life better and it's just deeply impressive. I'm full of self-doubt and second-guessing and cynicism. That's another type of human being."

Self-doubt aside, Watts could at least relate to Belon as one mother to another.

"I'm not thinking about a tsunami on a daily basis," Watts admits. "I have fears about getting separated from my children just on the subway, you know? You laugh, but I've gone through in my head, 'What would I do?' It's happened on an elevator before. And then you're like, is your child going to know where to get off? Luckily it's only ever happened in our building, so it's OK. They know the number five. But if it's the subway and you haven't had a conversation about it ... You know, I've actually tried to have the conversation, but it's just too confusing for them."

Filming the harrowing and hazardous scenes taking place in the immediate aftermath of the tsunami was no picnic for the actress, but she's not one to complain, always remembering to keep things in perspective. Watts remembers one particular scene where she clings to a tree as water rushes past.

"I was there for a long time, but I was anchored with a harness. Still, with the pressure of the water coming, you still had to hang on tight," she says. "But you just kept reminding yourself, I'm not going to complain. I'm not going to complain. I'm not going to complain. There were people who hung onto trees for 10, 12 hours."

Still, that doesn't mean the waterlogged sequence was a walk in the park.

"Physically, it's the most demanding thing I've ever done. Working with water is always going to be tough. I mean, it was five or six weeks in those tanks," she says.

Taking on the critics

Maria Belon is sick of the critics.

- Quote. The filmmakers behind The Impossible have come under fire for telling the story of the 2004 tsunami through the eyes of European tourists. But Maria Belon, the Spanish woman upon whom the story is based, has had enough. "I am fed up with the criticisms of it being in English, a British family," Belon says. "I can't understand why people don't understand what the movie is about."

But Tom Holland, who plays her eldest son in the film, seemed to enjoy himself, at least.

"Tom thought it was the most fun he's ever had," Watts says.

"It was like the water park every day, but the scariest possible one. But he's not only a trained athlete but he's 14, and I'm neither of those things."

Robert Pattinson and Kristen Stewart

No awkward U.K. Christmas ahead as Stewart and Pattinson opt for L.A.

Robert Pattinson and Kristen Stewart will reportedly be spending the holidays together in Los Angeles, ditching an earlier plan to visit Pattinson's family in the U.K. for Christmas, according to E! News. It appears the earlier plan would've led to no small amount of awkwardness, as the Pattinson clan is reportedly still cross with Stewart over her summer cheating scandal. But the reconciled lovers are said to be in such a hurry to celebrate the holidays together that Stewart left the premiere party for On the Road in New York early to get back to California.

"The couple will spend Christmas and New Year's together until he leaves on Jan. 8 to start filming his next project," a source says.

Russell Crowe is taking Page Six to task over reports that he's dating Katie Lee, ex-wife of Billy Joel, while he's separated from his own wife, Danielle Spencer.

"These latest reports are false and cruel," Crowe — who is currently filming A Winter's Tale in NYC and promoting Les Misérables — posted to Twitter. "As soon as I finish this job and can get home, my priority is to try to bring my family back together."

Jon Stewart dubs Grant worst Daily Show guest

Jon Stewart recently revealed that Hugh Grant was the worst guest he'd ever had on The Daily Show and he would "never" be invited back, saying at the Montclair Film Festival last week that Grant was "giving everyone s— the whole time. He's a big pain in the ass." Well, Grant got the message, posting to Twitter, "Turns out my inner crab got the better of me with TV producer in '09. Unforgivable. J. ## L.A. Reid will not be back for X Factor's third season

Considering Demi Lovato and Simon Cowell's contentious behaviour and crazy-side-eyes on this season of The X Factor, it comes as some surprise that it's L.A. Reid who is the first casualty on the judge's panel. The stylishly-dressed music executive will not be coming back next season for the reality TV show.

"I have the utmost respect for Simon Cowell," Reid said Thursday in a statement. Reid claims he is going back to his job of running the Epic music label. "He is the very best, and I have had the opportunity to learn so much from him. Working with him on X Factor has been a once-in-a-lifetime experience. I'm honoured to have sat on the panel with such incredible talent. Of course, I will miss the show," Reid added. "In my opinion, Simon attracts the best talent, but I'm looking forward to getting back to my core business and the responsibility of running Epic Records."

Season 3 already has the go-ahead by Fox, but there's still no word on if Cowell's co-judges — Demi Lovato and Britney Spears — will be back.

We all have baggage

IT'S ALL RELATIVE
Kathy Buckworth,
kathybuckworth.com

As more airlines impose fees for checked bags, travellers are looking for ways to stuff their carry-on bags full and into overflowing overhead bins. But are you really getting something for free?

The disadvantages to checking a bag is (sometimes) the financial cost, wait times at the baggage carousel or having the bag delayed or lost.

But with a carry-on, downsides include jumping up to wait in line and get on the plane early to secure a bin, (within at least a few rows of your seat) and then hefting a huge bag over your (and others') heads or having to ask for help to do so.

You're also limited to only 100 millilitres of any liquid (this includes alcohol). Not to mention the jammed in, wrinkled clothes, not having just the right shoes and pulling the suitcase through miles of airport.

And the time you saved? Your checked in pals used it to read an extra chapter, have another glass or visit the washroom in the airport, prior to boarding. Just make sure you consider the real cost, carefully. KATHY BUCKWORTH IS AN AWARD WINNING WRITER. VISIT KATHYBUCKWORTH.COM OR FOLLOW KATHY ON TWITTER @KATHYBUCKWORTH

Of wish lists, undesirable gifts and handling high expectations

Holiday demands.

Christmas is a time of year when it's important to manage your kids' high hopes

MARY SHELL

Metro World News in New York

Your children may have wish lists a mile long, but Denise Schipani, author of Mean Moms Rule: Why Doing the Hard Stuff Now Creates Good Kids Later, says that when it comes to gifts, more stuff under the Christmas tree isn't necessarily more satisfying.

"The holidays can be sensory overload for adults. It can be that way for your child, too," she says.

Feeling overwhelmed at your children's overwhelming holiday demands? It's up to you to manage their expectations. They can't temper themselves in the throes of the holidays.

"My kids still believe in Santa Claus, and they make their lists," she says. But Schipani makes sure her kids understand these are wish lists and not just a run-down of what they'll get. Choosing one thing from the list allows you to surprise your child, she says. "There's a way for them to feel excited about getting stuff without getting greedy about it."

You won't be a Grinch if your child doesn't get everything they desire — not everybody gets everything they want.

"And when your kids ask for something that's too extravagant, Schipani points to a chapter in her book titled: Say 'No.' Smile. Don't Apologize. Repeat as Necessary.

"It's not damaging to say, 'No,'" she reminds.

On the big day, tune in to your kid's experience and how he or she is reacting to unwrapping the gifts. If there's a tantrum or you see your child's eyes glaze over, take note.

"The reason they're doing that might well be that you've overwhelmed them," she says.

And it's equally important to notice when you see your child stop and really engage with a toy. It means you've given your child

Your relatives

When you can't control the grandparents...

- Meaningful gifts. "There are relatives that are not going to listen, no matter what," Schipani says. But try having a conversation with family members before the holidays. Tell them to consider whether gifts are age-appropriate or whether a combination of quality time and a meaningful gift might be better for your child than an iPod or Xbox."

something he or she really enjoys — a gift that's probably sufficient on its own.

Finally, remember to set a good example for your kids and take opportunities throughout the year to remind them of the great things they already have.

Avoid cultivating a "more is better" attitude, she notes. "Model the behaviour that you want to see."

Pay attention to your kids' reactions as they open gifts. ISTOCK

Meatballs and Cranberry Marinara get the party started

1. Heat the oven to 425 F. Coat a rimmed baking sheet with cooking spray.

2. In a large bowl, combine the eggs, cilantro, jalapenos, garlic, fennel, oregano, onion powder, red pepper flakes, 2 teaspoons of salt and 1/2 teaspoon of pepper. Whisk until well combined. Add the ground beef, then mix gently

Ingredients

- 3 eggs, beaten
- 1/4 cup finely chopped cilantro
- 1 tbsp finely chopped jalapeno slices
- 3 cloves garlic, minced
- 2 tsp fennel seeds
- 2 tsp dried oregano
- 1 tsp onion powder
- 1/2 tsp red pepper flakes
- Kosher salt and ground black pepper
- 3 lbs ground beef (93 per cent lean)
- 14-oz can whole berry cranberry sauce
- 15-oz can diced tomatoes
- Splash of hot sauce

until completely blended. Divide the mixture into 50 balls, using about 2 tablespoons of the mixture per ball. Arrange the meatballs on the prepared baking sheet.

3. Place the baking sheet in the oven and bake the meat-balls for 20 minutes. Increase heat to broil and cook for another 1 to 2 minutes, or until lightly browned.

4. Meanwhile, in a medium saucepan over medium heat, combine the cranberry sauce and diced tomatoes. Bring to a simmer. Season with salt and pepper, and a splash of hot sauce.

5. When meatballs are done, arrange on a platter, then spoon the cranberry mixture over them. Serve with toothpicks. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Kernel's double-butter popcorn (9 cups)

1,380 calories / 42 g fat / 1,800 mg sodium

Double anything usually indicates a red flag. The butter really increases the calories and fat.

Equivalent

Nine cups of Kernel's double-butter popcorn is equal in fat to 16 Rice Krispie Squares.

The butter salt refers more to seasoning than butter amount as reflected in the calories and fat. Sodium is excellent by comparison.

Onion, Bacon & Cheddar Bites. Delectable appy

1. In bowl, whisk flour, baking powder, salt and pepper. In a large bowl, whisk eggs until frothy; whisk in milk. Fold in flour mix, stirring to combine. Fold in bacon, red pepper, cheese and onion.

2. Spoon a heaping 15 ml (1 tbsp) into well-greased mini-muffin cups. Bake in 230 C (450 F) oven until golden and puffed, about 15 minutes. Let cool on rack.

3. Topping: In bowl, mix sour cream and hot sauce. Spoon about 2 ml (1/2 tsp) topping onto each bite. Sprinkle with parsley and red pepper.

4. Cut each in half diagonally and arrange on platter. Serve with small bowl of sweet red chili sauce for dipping. THE CANADIAN PRESS/ FOODLAND ONTARIO

Impress your guests with rich and creamy Crab Quiche Bites

When it comes to food, "re-cooked" isn't generally a term met with much affection. The dairy world, however, gives us a fine exception in ricotta cheese.

Ricotta — Italian for re-cooked — isn't exactly a stranger to most North Americans, who tend to love it in lasagna. But as cheeses go, its versatility is vastly underappreciated.

Ricotta got its name because it is made literally by re-cooking the liquid left over from making other cheese, often mozzarella. This is possible because when mozzarella or other cheeses are made, most, but not all, of the protein is removed from the liquid.

That leftover protein can be

Ingredients

- Two 1.9-oz packages frozen mini phyllo dough cups (15 cups per package)
- 1/2 cup part-skim ricotta cheese
- 2 eggs
- 1/4 tsp garlic powder
- 1/4 tsp salt
- 1/4 tsp ground black pepper
- 1/2 cup crab meat, finely chopped
- Grated Parmesan cheese

This recipe makes 30 Quiche Bites. MATTHEW MEAD/ THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

recooked and coagulated using a different, acid-based process. The result is a soft, granular cheese with a texture somewhere between yogurt and cottage cheese. The taste is mild, milky, salty and slightly acidic.

And that acid is key. When cheese is formed using acid, the proteins become heat resistant. In other words, the cheese doesn't melt. It heats wonderfully, but doesn't reduce to a pool of goo.

1. Heat the oven to 400 F. Arrange the phyllo cups on a rimmed baking sheet.

2. In a blender, combine the ricotta, eggs, garlic powder, salt and pepper. Blend until very smooth. Stir the crab meat into the egg mixture.

3. Carefully spoon a bit of the mixture into each phyllo cup, filling each about three-quarters full.

4. Sprinkle a bit of Parmesan over each cup, then bake for 15 to 20 minutes, or until the filling is set and starting to brown.

5. The quiche bites can be served hot, room temperature or chilled.

Tolkien literature to the next level

J.R.R.101. University's hefty collection of author's materials attracting students fascinated by fantastic works

The vast collection of J.R.R. Tolkien manuscripts initially sold senior Joe Kirchoff on Marquette University, so when the school offered its first course devoted exclusively to the English author, Kirchoff wanted in. The only problem: It was full and he wasn't on the literature track.

Undaunted, the 22-year-old political science and history major lobbied the English department and others starting last spring and through the summer and "kind of just made myself a problem," he said. His persistence paid off.

"It's a fantastic course," said Kirchoff, a Chicago native. "It's a great way to look at something that's such a creative work of genius in such a way you really come to understand the man behind it."

He and the 31 other students can now boast of their authority about the author, who influenced much of today's high fantasy writing. The course was taught for the first time this fall as part of the university's celebration of the 75th anniversary of The Hobbit being published. And class wrapped up just before the film, The Hobbit: An Unexpected Journey, was released Friday.

The class, which filled up fast with mostly seniors who had first dibs, looked at Tolkien as a whole, not just the popular Lord of the Rings and The Hobbit. Students took their final exam this week, and the course was so well received, Marquette is considering more in the future.

Marquette University professor Tim Machan teaches a class on J.R.R. Tolkien that focuses on all of his books, books that influenced Tolkien and other tidbits about the writer. CARRIE ANTLEFINGER / THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

"It's the best class I've had in 27 years here ... for student preparation, interest and enthusiasm," said English professor Tim Machan. "And I can throw out any topic and they will have read the material and they want to talk about the material."

Though Tolkien classes aren't unusual nationwide, Marquette students had the added bonus of being able to visit Tolkien's revisions, notes, detailed calendars, maps and watercolours on site at the school's archive. And they got a lesson from the school's archivist Bill Fliss.

"One of the things we wanted to impress upon the students was the fact that Tolkien was a fanatical reviser," Fliss said. "He never really did anything once and was finished with it."

Chrissy Wabiszewski, a senior English major, described Tolkien's manuscripts as art. "When you get down and look at just his script and his artwork in general, it all kind of flows together in this really beautiful, like, cumulative form," Wabiszewski said. "It's cool. It is just really cool to have it here."

The class also looked at Tolkien's poetry, academic articles and translations of medieval poems; talked about the importance of his writers' group, the Inklings; and explored what it meant to be a writer at that time.

"We've ... tried to think about continuities that ran through everything he did," Machan said. His students were also required to go to three lectures that were part of Marquette's commemoration.

The Hobbit, a tale of homebody Bilbo Baggins' journey, is set in Tolkien's fictional realm of Middle-earth and takes place 60 years before The Lord of the Rings. The movie released Friday is the first of the trilogy. The Hobbit: The Desolation of Smaug is expected to be released on Dec. 13, 2013, and a third film will come out in the summer of 2014.

Most of the students were just finishing elementary school when the first Lord of the Rings film was released 11 years ago.

Kirchoff said he started reading The Hobbit and the Lord of the Rings when he was in fourth grade, before the movies came out. He said the movies have introduced others to Tolkien's ideas, making his love for Tolkien's fantasy worlds more socially acceptable. "The movies were fantastic enough and engaging enough to coexist in my mind with the litera-

Lord of the reads

History of a creative collection

Marquette University is one of the main repositories of Tolkien's drafts, drawings and other writings — more than 11,000 pages.

- It has the manuscripts for The Lord of the Rings and The Hobbit, as well as his lesser-known Farmer Giles of Ham and his children's book Mr. Bliss. Marquette was the first institution to ask Tolkien for the manuscripts in 1956 and paid him about $5,000.

- The university acquired the manuscripts after it hired William Ready in 1956 to build its literary collection. Ready, who became interested in Tolkien after reading The Hobbit, in turn hired Bertram Rota, a London rare book dealer, to serve as the agent for Marquette.

- Rota wrote to Tolkien and asked for his original manuscripts. Tolkien happened to be worried about his retirement finances and agreed to the sale. Tolkien died in 1973.

ture I really do love," he said.

Wabiszewski said it's clear her classmates weren't just taking the class as a filler.

"I definitely expected the enthusiasm from everybody, but just the knowledge that everybody brought into the class, it's cool," she said. "We really have a smart group of people in that class who have a lot to offer."

Action Plan

Don't isolate yourself

Get out early, get feedback and talk to your potential market.

Adjust your course

Iterate based on feedback from your potential market and understand it's a continuous evolution of your business.

Fall in love with the problem, not the solution.

Be focused on the core issue you are trying to solve. You can always change the solution. Don't get caught up in features and functionality.

CONSIDER A CAREER AS A PARALEGAL

Did you know that to practice as a Paralegal in Ontario you must be licensed by the Law Society of Upper Canada (LSUC)? In order to write the LSUC licensing exam, you must graduate from a program of study accredited by LSUC.

The paralegal program at Algonquin Careers Academy is accredited by LSUC. The objective of this program is to provide both theoretical and "hands-on" training in the key areas of paralegal work and to ensure the student is prepared to successfully undertake the Law Society's licensing exam.

The need for well-trained, competent legal professionals has never been greater. Paralegals may find employment in a wide variety of workplaces, including:

- Government (Federal, Provincial, Municipal)
- Advocacy agencies
- As a Self-Employed Paralegal
- Law and Paralegal Firms
- Courts (Federal and Provincial)
- Legal Clinics
- Banks/Financial Institutions
- Insurance Companies
- Large Corporations

PART-TIME EVENING CLASSES NOW AVAILABLE

You can complete this program in less than one year by attending school full time, Monday to Friday.

This program can be completed part time through evening and weekend classes.

When it comes to successful studying, give yourself a hand

The write stuff.
Movement and memory a winning classroom combination

What do fingers and hands have to do with how well studied material can be recalled?

According to research, the physical act of holding a pen and writing something out by hand stimulates critical activity in specific areas of the brain.

In a recent study, one group learned the alphabet by writing the letters out by hand.

The other group read solely off computers. The group who wrote out the letters by hand had better recall and scored better on tests.

According to Dr. Nick Whitehead, the CEO and founder of Oxford Learning, these studies prove what educators have long known about studying and remembering,

The pen is mightiest

Dr. Nick Whitehead
CEO and founder of Oxford Learning

"There are many different ways to approach the process of studying, but one of the best-known has always been to create study notes using pen and paper," he said.

It may seem an old-fashioned practice given the abundance of personal technology that students have at their fingertips, but the act of physically writing creates a motor memory in the brain that im-

Duly noted

How to create study notes

- Grab a pen and paper
- Read over all in-class or textbook notes.
- Write down subject headings, subheadings, and bolded or key words.
- Focus on writing down the ideas or concepts that are the most challenging, or that are the most difficult to remember.

proves recall.

Not only do study notes help students organize the material, but the act of holding the pen and writing notes makes the study process active rather than passive.

Recipe. All-In-One Spiced Chocolate Loaf

This Green & Black's Organic All-In-One Spiced Chocolate Loaf recipe will be a sure hit during the holidays.

Ingredients:

- 50 g dark (70 per cent cocoa solids) chocolate
- 100 g plain flour
- 125 g icing sugar
- 1 tsp ground mixed spice
- 2 tsp baking powder
- 175 g unsalted butter at room temperature, plus extra for greasing
- 4 medium free-range eggs
- 100 g dark chocolate with ginger

Instructions:

- 1 Preheat the oven to 180 C/350 F/gas mark 4, and butter a 22-centimetre loaf pan.

- 2 Melt the dark chocolate using double boiler method (placing a microwave or heatproof bowl over a pan of gently simmering water) ensuring the bowl doesn't touch the water. Set aside to cool.

- 3 Blend the flour, sugar, spices and baking powder. This can be achieved using a food processor or a hand-held electric mixer.

- 4 Add the butter, cooled melted chocolate and the eggs and blend until evenly combined. Pour the mixture into the loaf pan and bake for about 35 minutes or until a toothpick inserted in the centre comes out clean. Carefully

Dark, milk or white chocolate would also complement this cake's flavours. CONTRIBUTED remove the loaf from the pan and cool on a wire rack.

- 5 Meanwhile, melt the ginger chocolate bar using the double boiler method and drizzle over the cooled cake. Makes one loaf.

Tip: You can also drizzle the loaf with other Green & Black's Organic chocolate. Dark, milk or white chocolate would also complement this cake's flavours.

Lockout

NHLPA vote to dissolve union underway

A critical vote was set to begin Sunday that will determine if the NHL labour battle moves from the negotiating table to the courtroom.

The players are casting their ballots on whether or not to give their executive board the authority to dissolve the NHL Players' Association.

Doing so would allow the board to file a disclaimer of interest, which is a step toward disbanding the union and giving the players the chance to file anti-trust lawsuits against the league.

Two-thirds of the union's membership must vote in favour of the move over a five-day period that ends Thursday, then the union executive board must respond.

The league has already taken some pre-emptive action after it filed a class-action complaint on Friday that asked a federal court in New York to make a declaration on the legality of the lockout.

The NHL also filed an unfair-labour-practice charge with the U.S. National Labor Relations Board.

The union was quick to respond with a statement on Friday night that suggested the league was overstepping its bounds. At that point, it had yet to even be served with the lawsuit.

NBA. Raptors top Rockets for another win

The winning continues for the Toronto Raptors — for one game at least.

Jose Calderon had 18 points, 10 rebounds and 14 assists to lead the short-handed Raptors to a 103-96 victory over the Houston Rockets on Sunday, marking the first time Toronto has won consecutive games in eight long months.

Alan Anderson had 24 points, while DeMar DeRozan added 19 points for the Raptors (6-19), who hadn't won consecutive games since April 13. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Toronto. Bills' game goes south as NFL heads north

Rookie Russell Wilson rushed for three TDs and threw for another while Earl Thomas returned an interception 57 yards for a touchdown as the Seattle Seahawks steamrolled past the Buffalo Bills 50-17 on Sunday at Rogers Centre in Toronto.

Seattle (9-5) earned its fifth win in six games and cemented its first winning season since going 10-6 in 2007. It also marked the second straight lopsided win for the Seahawks, who dominated Arizona 58-0 last week. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Broncos rumble to 9th straight win vs. Ravens

NFL. Denver gets win in Baltimore despite off game from QB Manning

By the numbers

For three weeks, Baltimore has needed one win to clinch a fifth straight trip to the playoffs. The Ravens still lead the AFC North, but their lead over the Cincinnati Bengals has shrunk to one game with two to play.

consecutive win against Baltimore, the first with the Broncos (11-3).

But he was merely a role player in this one, because Denver's defence dominated the Ravens, who sputtered in their first game with Jim Caldwell as offensive co-ordinator.

This was supposed to be a test for Denver, which was eager to face a quality opponent on the road.

"Pat Bowlen has owned the team for 29 years and has averaged 10 wins a season, but it's the first time he's won in this building," Broncos coach John Fox said. "I was proud to see that for him."

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Denver Broncos no longer can be considered a notch below the best in the AFC, nor can they be viewed as a team that can succeed only when Peyton Manning puts up dazzling numbers.

Their 34-17 rout of the Baltimore Ravens on Sunday showed just how good these Broncos can be.

Chris Harris returned an interception 98 yards for a momentum-turning touchdown, and Denver cruised to its ninth straight victory in surprisingly easy fashion.

"You come to the Ravens' house and beat them handily, it's definitely a statement game," Harris said. "We definitely wanted to show to everybody that we're an elite team."

Horoscopes

Aries

March 21 - April 20
Thinking about what might have been is a complete waste of time. You will always get the chance to do things in the future that make up for what you did, or did not do, in the past. Why worry?

Taurus

April 21 - May 21
You are in a can-do mood at the moment and that's good because the planets indicate that if you make an effort, the results will be spectacular. Jupiter in the money area of your chart could make you a fortune!

Gemini

May 22 - June 21
Anything is possible if you want it enough — yes, anything. Identify what it is you most want to accomplish then just go for it, and ignore those who say you are being irresponsible. What do they know? Nothing!

Cancer

June 22 - July 23
If there is something you wanted to finish but for one reason or another failed to see through to the end, don't worry, you'll get another chance. Is it the last chance? Maybe not, but do you want to risk it?

Leo

July 24 - Aug. 23
You can sense that if you want to make changes to your lifestyle you are going to have to make them soon. You have spent enough time thinking and planning, now you must act. It's now or never.

Virgo

Aug. 24 - Sept. 23
Don't think about what you intend to do. Just do it and let the situation unfold according to its own momentum. The year is too old to make detailed plans. Just take each day, and moment, as it comes.

Libra

Sept. 24 - Oct. 23
Try not to tie yourself down to tasks and chores that can be done at any time. Jupiter in your fellow Air sign of Gemini urges you to be adventurous today. Go some place you have never been to before.

Scorpio

Oct. 24 - Nov. 22
It might be wise not to get too involved in something your friends are clearly enthused about. Don't worry that you might be missing out. On the contrary, you're making time for more important things.

Sagittarius

Nov. 23 - Dec. 21
It may be a bit too easy to lose your sense of perspective today as mind planet Mercury opposes Jupiter in your opposite sign. Something will annoy you for sure but you don't have to take it seriously.

Capricorn

Dec. 22 - Jan. 20
You should be promoting yourself for all you are worth, not only because you are worth more than your rivals but because you have something valuable to offer. Leave your mark on the world and make it a big one.

Aquarius

Jan. 21 - Feb. 19
You won't lack for courage or confidence today but you must make sure they are well directed. This is the perfect time to take a creative endeavour to a higher level. Believe you can do it and you'll find a way.

Pisces

Feb. 20 - March 20
If you have promised to do something for a loved one then you must do it — immediately. Yes, of course, you did not realize that other factors would come into play but that's irrelevant. Promises must be kept. SALLY BROMPTON
